The nuclear receptor superfamily is a group of intracellular receptors containing DNA-binding domains that are activated by a wide variety of endogenous and exogenous chemicals. PPAR $\alpha$  is activated by such dietary lipids such as polyunsaturated fatty acids (PUFA) and their derivatives. In the presence of ligand, PPAR $\alpha$  forms a dimer with retinoid X receptor (RXR) and binds to the peroxisome proliferation element (PPRE) of target genes and thus regulates their expression. PPAR $\alpha$  is a promising target for the treatment of cardiovascular diseases (mainly atherosclerosis) and type 2 diabetes.Q: Criteria selection for analysis of random variables with the bernoulli distribution Suppose we have 10 independent trials with the bernoulli distribution. What we can say about the probability of the events  $SX_i$  being all positive? I am thinking it has something to do with the Binomial distribution, but I am not too sure how to approach this problem. I am not looking for a complete solution, just a pointer in the right direction. A: If  $SX_i$  denotes the  $i$ -th trial, then  $SP(X_i=1)=\text{binom}\{10\}1(1-p)^9p=31\approx 0.31^25$ . The probability you are interested in is therefore  $SP(X_1=1,\dots,X_n=1)=\text{binom}\{10\}n(1-p)^{9n}p^n$ . You want to find  $S_n$  such that  $SP(X_1=1,\dots,X_n=1)$ . A simple technique is to maximize the expression  $S\text{binom}\{10\}n(1-p)^{9n}p^n$  (so that is what you need to get  $S\text{binom}\{10\}n(1-p)^{9n}p^n$  as close to 1 as possible), which in turn is equivalent to minimizing  $Snp+n$
